SLEUTH BURNS HITS AT ROOT OF GRAFT

Says He Knows Names of Gotham Triumvirate.

ONE IS LAWYER-POLITICIAN

Others Are Hotel Man With Influence Among Democratic Politicians, While Last Is Man Less Prominent Who Made It Appear That He Represented Police—Denies That He Operated Fake Resort to Secure Evidence—Schepps Ready to Talk.

New York, Aug. 13.—District Attorney Whitman learned from Detective W. J. Burns the names of three men who have made it possible for policemen to blackmail gamblers and keepers of disorderly houses. One of these, says Burns, is a lawyer-politician, who claimed to represent the city administration. Another is a hotel man with influence in the Democratic party. This man represented the organization. The third, less prominent, made it appear that he spoke for the police.

It had been their custom, said Burns, to meet frequently in an up-town hotel not far from Forty-second street and Broadway. The hotel in which they met was not the Metropole nor was it a resort of common gamblers or lawbreakers.

In addition to information which points to these three as the board of directors of graft, Mr. Burns has, he informed the district attorney, grounds for stating that two police inspectors at least were profiting richly through the looting of gamblers and other persons outside the law.

Hold Two Conferences.

Mr. Whitman had two conferences with Mr. Burns. The district attorney was anxious to know, in the first place, if Burns had obtained any graft evidence by running real or pretended gambling houses or real or pretended disorderly houses.

"I was very much surprised," said the district attorney, "to read what purported to be descriptions of a method used by you in obtaining evidence against corrupt policemen. If you have obtained such evidence it was my right to have it. If you have not such evidence, your name should not have been connected with such stories."

Mr. Burns replied: "It is absolutely untrue that I have been obtaining evidence by any such means. I would have informed you, of course, if I had taken such measures."

Schepps Says He Will Reserve It For Whitman's Ear.

Hot Springs, Ark., Aug. 13.—Contrary to expectations, no representative from District Attorney Whitman arrived here to take back to New York Sam Schepps, said to have been the paymaster who provided the murderers of Herman Rosenthal with money with which to make their escape after they had killed the New York gambler. Schepps has succeeded in attracting much attention in this city.

Acting Mayor Pettit received a telegram from District Attorney Whitman stating that Messrs. Turbin and Stewart would arrive in Hot Springs some time today, and that Officer Thomas would arrive later. It is believed from the telegram that Turbin and Stewart have stopped in the various state capitals en route here to secure the necessary requisition and legal papers in order to be sure that they would have no trouble on their return journey.

"They needn't have gone to all the bother of getting requisition papers," said Schepps, "for I'll go back with them whether they have requisition papers or not. I am anxious to see Whitman, and when I tell my story to him, which I will do when we are alone and I can look him squarely in the eyes, something is going to drop."

Acting Mayor Pettit gave Captain of Police Howell orders to have Schepps in his room promptly by 10 o'clock and keep him there. The mayor fears that some of New York's gambling gang or gunmen may slip into Hot Springs and shoot Howell and Schepps on the street.

Jesse Oswald, 30, trackwalker, was hit by a Pennsylvania train near Alliance, O., and instantly killed.

Governor Wilson Officially Notified of His Nomination

Photos copyright, 1912, by American Press Association.

THE "Little White House" grounds at Sea Girt never before were trampled by such a crowd as that which gathered to make a Democratic holiday of the "notification" of Governor Wilson. It is estimated that 5,000 people attended the ceremonies, and it is unofficially reported that the condition of the governor's right hand and arm the next day was such as to make him believe that he had shaken hands with all of them. A committee of fifty-two members, one from each state, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico, waited upon the candidate, and Senator Elect Ollie James, flanked by senators, congressmen and governors, did the talking up to the point when the governor read his speech of acceptance. Mrs. Wilson and her daughters were interested witnesses of the formalities, which were enlivened by the presence of a large number of prominent Democrats, including Governor Marshall, the vice presidential candidate, who, in the photograph, is seen standing at Governor Wilson's left.

DAVID BLACK INHALED GAS TO END LIFE

Wife of Lancaster Suicide Is Fatally Burned.

EXPLOSION WRECKS DWELLING

Mrs. David Black Returns Home and Strikes Match Which Ignites Gas Escaping From Tube Used by Husband, and Is Quickly Enveloped in Flames—Firemen Arrive in Time to Prevent Cremation of Bodies. Both Were in Poor Health.

Lancaster, O., Aug. 13.—David Black committed suicide by inhaling gas, and in an explosion a short time later Mrs. Black, his wife, who entered the house and struck a match, was fatally burned and their home wrecked. Originating from the explosion of the gas, flames destroyed a part of the debris and would have consumed the body of Mr. Black but for the timely arrival of firemen. Black took his own life while his wife was absent from the home. Securing a long rubber tube he fastened it to a gas jet, wound the tube around his neck, placed the end of the tube in his mouth and turned on the gas.

Sets Fire to Clothing.

When Mrs. Black returned she lighted a match to prepare supper. Great volumes of gas which had escaped from the open jet exploded, setting fire to her clothing and the interior of the home.

Enveloped in flames, Mrs. Black ran from the burning house, but before assistance could reach her she was so badly injured that she will die.

The body on which the body of Mr. Black was lying caught fire, but firemen reached the scene and extinguished the flames before the body was consumed.

Mr. and Mrs. Black are elderly people and neither has had good health. Until quite recently Mr. Black has been employed in a local flour mill. They have no children.

Leon Meyer, a theatrical manager of New York, committed suicide by shooting himself through the right temple.

Henry Moss shot at his sister, with whom he lived, in Columbus, O., and then made a futile effort to end his own life. He was crazy drunk.

TRAIN HELD UP BY THE REBELS

More Than Fifty People Killed By Zapatista Band.

Mexico City, Aug. 13.—Thirty-six soldiers and more than 20 passengers were slaughtered by Zapatistas in a canyon, 110 miles southeast of Mexico City, when a passenger train southbound from this city was attacked from ambush.

After a murderous rifle fire had ceased, the rebels swarmed down the hillside and set fire to the three cars composing the train. A few of the wounded had crawled out on the right of way, thus escaping the fate of those unable to leave the cars, who were burned.

According to reports, the leader of the rebels made absolutely no effort to restrain his men from acts of brutality greater than any that has yet marked the campaign in the south. The wounded, pleading for their lives, were struck down without pity and even looting was held in abeyance until the slaughter was complete.

Not satisfied with robbing their victims in an ordinary manner, the fingers of men and women were chopped off with machetes, that rings they wore might be more quickly obtained. Ornaments were torn from the ears of women and their bodies were otherwise mutilated.

Kills Two Then Self

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Locking his intended victims in a room and pocketing the key, J. B. Lautzenheiser shot and killed a man and a woman at 2307 West Madison street and then fired a bullet into his own brain. All died instantly. The two murdered by Lautzenheiser were Mrs. Mary Burwell, 55, who kept a rooming house, and Thomas Dugan, 60, a motorman. The tragedy is a mystery.

GOVERNOR'S WIFE IS INDIGNANT

Declares That She Detests the Habit and That Coffin Nails Have No Place in Her Household—Syndicate Story Probably Originated in Interview With Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, the Writer, Who Favors Smoking by Gentler Sex.

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 13.—Broadcast publication of a newspaper syndicate story to the effect that Mrs. Woodrow Wilson not only favored the smoking of cigarettes by women, but even had three cigarette boxes close at hand when the interviewer questioned her on her opinion of the views expressed by Gertrude Atherton, has made the wife of the presidential nominee most indignant.

Mrs. Wilson does not smoke; no member of her family smokes, much less herself or her daughters. She intensely dislikes the smoke habit in women, which may be a tip to Washington society women.

Mrs. Wilson did not know anything about the interview until clippings and editorials began to reach her. She stood it until the editor of the Ohio State Journal sent a clipping, and then Mrs. Wilson's patience gave way. She wrote the following letter, and she breaks her usual rule by hoping that it obtains general circulation. It is as follows:

"Dear Sir—I have just received a copy of the Journal with your editorial entitled 'Smoking Women,' and I beg leave to indignantly deny the statement that I approve of women smoking cigarettes.

Interview Pure Invention.

"The interview upon which your editorial was based is a pure invention. I intensely dislike the cigarette smoking habit for women; in fact, so strong is my feeling on the subject that my real danger lies in being unjust and unkind in my judgment of those who differ with me in this respect.

Former Senator Will Also Boost Taft Candidacy.

Columbus, O., Aug. 13.—Announcement was made here that Former Senator James B. Foraker of Cincinnati had decided to take the stump for General Brown and the rest of the Taft ticket in Ohio this fall.

The Republican state committee is holding a session here this afternoon for the purpose of nominating a candidate for lieutenant governor to take the place of General R. B. Brown, who was elevated to the head of the ticket by the Taft members of the committee, which action caused the resignation of Walter F. Brown as member of the national committee and as chairman and member of the state central committee and the withdrawals of seven other Roosevelt supporters from the state committee.

Taft men already selected to take the places of Roosevelt men who resigned from the state committee Saturday are as follows: George Stauffer of Ottawa, to succeed William Kirtley in the Fifth; Charles B. Whitley of Lancaster, to succeed I. M. Foster in the Eleventh; Edwin Jones of Jackson, to succeed Sherman Eagle in the Tenth; Julius A. Whiting of Canton, to succeed J. H. C. Lyon in the Eighteenth, and W. S. Kent of Kent, to succeed C. L. Knight in the Nineteenth.

Rebel Band Is Routed By Yanks Wagons Taken

American Troopers Capture Much Contraband Ammunition.

Washington, Aug. 13.—The most serious clash that has yet taken place between American soldiers on the Mexican border patrol and rebels or gun-runners, has been reported by Colonel E. Z. Steever, in command of the patrol forces at El Paso, Tex. Colonel Steever was notified by citizens in the Great Bend country of the Rio Grande, near Fort Bliss, that several suspicious Mexicans were in that vicinity, apparently prepared to capture arms and ammunition into Mexico.

The movement was anticipated in a short, sharp engagement, in which one American soldier was slightly wounded and one Mexican was badly hurt and taken captive. The remainder of the band, composed of about 50 men, managed to get across the river, but were compelled to leave behind all their pack mules, 15 in number, and their load of 50,000 rounds of ammunition and several rifles.

Corsican Hits Iceberg, but Proceeds on Way to Liverpool.

Halifax, Aug. 13.—A marconigram from the Straits of Belle Isle states that the Allan line steamer Corsican, bound from Montreal for Liverpool, struck an iceberg in latitude 52.24 north, longitude 52.14 west. The Corsican has between 400 and 500 passengers. The Corsican's bow was considerably crushed by coming in contact with the iceberg. After a thorough examination temporary repairs were made and the vessel proceeded on her way to Liverpool without assistance. None of the passengers or crew were injured.

At Salisbury Plains, England, Aviator De Havilland made a new record by remaining in the air three hours with a passenger and attaining a height of 9,500 feet.

THE THIRD PARTY ISSUE.

The choosing of a candidate for governor by the Republican State Central Committee last Saturday, in itself a proceeding unprecedented in the history of Ohio politics, and the row consequent upon the final action of the Committee calls once more to the attention of the people, the fact that perhaps never before in the history of this nation has there been more unrest and more shifting for the final battle, among the voters.

It is certain that never in the last three score years have there been such conditions. Possibly the chaos which now reigns in the ranks of the Republican party was equaled in the first years of its existence but certainly not since. Possibly, too, in the infancy of the Republic political lines may have undergone more lightning like shifting and more revolutionary changing, but even that is doubtful.

One of the strangest features in the whole political maelstrom is the cause of it all—an ex-president honored with two terms in the highest office within the gift of the people of the greatest nation on earth, himself a seeker for the nomination at the hands of the party he now seeks to destroy and has already rent asunder, perhaps, placing it beyond the hope of victory.

In addition to that, the leader of the third party ticket is most vehement in his denunciation of the man he himself chose as his successor, and labored early and late for his nomination and election.

With an audacity which has never before been equaled in American politics this man now seeks for himself that which Washington declined and that which Grant was denied—a third term in the presidential chair. Denied at the hands of his own party that third term which the sacred law of long established precedent forbids, he launches forth on his own hook without the pale of all political organizations and in launching that movement so unheard of and undreamed of in American politics has created a condition that the election laws of almost every state in the union contain no provision to govern; creating a condition which may seriously tax the machinery of the Electoral College to deal with.

It is a movement not only unheard of and undreamed of in American politics, but one which may easily lead to serious consequences. Neither can the movement be laughed off as of no consequence. It is a real and substantial movement which will appeal to to many thousands, possibly millions of Americans who are attracted by the "passing show" and follow and enjoy the spectacular disregarding the consequences.

The new movement is founded upon the idea that one man is indispensable to the Government—there can be no denying that fact. That idea in itself is most dangerous to this form of government. From that to succession on account of birth is a narrow span and easily crossed.

In a nation of over ninety millions of enlightened people the perpetuation of no individual in office is essential to the welfare of the nation and the preservation of the rights of the people.

We have reached just that issue and the third party movement presents it squarely. It is not necessary to launch into a tirade of abuse of Colonel Roosevelt and his plans and purposes, it is not necessary to detract in the least from the glory which his honors have given him, it is sufficient to rest the whole objection upon the one proposition—it would be to establish a dangerous precedent and wreck a sacred rule of the Republic to elect Colonel Roosevelt. To do so would be to acknowledge that he only is capable of serving the people as chief executive, To do so would be to proclaim that he is more indispensable than Washington and greater than Grant; that great as the crisis was when Washington declined a third term and grave as the menace was when Grant was denied, yet after one hundred and thirty six years of advancement along all lines and prosperity, the equal of which history fails to record, we have arrived at a place where the destinies of this great nation the development of its people and its material welfare depend absolutely on one man. That, in reality, is the platform presented by the third party.

Few thinking people (but there are a few) believe it.

American Women Have Worst Walk In the World

By Mrs. ALICE CHRISTAL, Lecturer and Writer, of Ireland

I HEARD a man say you could raise money on a walk. He was quite right. Also A WALK CAN SEND US TO JAIL—at any rate, to an asylum.

When the man said you could raise money on a walk he meant a fine, sturdy, self respecting walk that begot confidence and would inspire some one to LEND MONEY TO THE OWNER.

The walk that might send one to jail is the slouching, furtive walk that makes us an OBJECT OF SUSPICION, and the walk that will send us to the hospital is the narrow shouldered, bowed head, hunched up walk that will place one in the consumptive ward, where we deserve to go if we walk in such a way.

THE AMERICAN WOMAN HAS THE WORST WALK IN THE WORLD.

Poetry—Today

MAN-STUFF.

Give me a taste of the ocean green
And a whiff of a Nor'west wind,
A lift and a dip and a low career
And the growl of a wake behind;
Give me the feel of a twist and reel
And the crack of a tempest's whip,
For I will not loaf with moss on my keel,
In the arms of a lazy ship.

Sluggards there are who would anchor in,
And would cling to a friendly lee,
But court the wind and the storm and din
And the perils of open sea;

For out in the open the way is wide,
And a man is a man out there—
And I'd rather battle the sea and tide
Than sleep in a stagnant air!

Give me the world, and the work to do
That is cut to the size of Man!
For a fellow will sleep when his shift is through
As a man who has earned it can't
Not for the snews of manhood wait
The places of rotting ease,
For you find Men out in the storms of Fate
At the wheel in the roughest seas.

Give me the feel of the twist and reel
And the crack of the tempest's whip,
For I will not loaf with moss on my keel
In the arms of a lazy ship!

IS DIRT GOOD FOR BOYS?

Some folks say: "Oh, let the boy play in the dirt. It is good for him. I wouldn't give a cent for a boy that keeps his clothes clean." That may be all right, but what about the boy's mother? Getting the dirt out of the clothes by the use of old-fashioned yellow soap and slow wash-day methods is hard labor. If the boy's mother uses Easy Task laundry soap, which does half the work for her itself, and which reduces washday labor by fifty per cent., it is different. Easy Task is five cents a cake and is the greatest nickel's worth of soap ever sold.

FINDS ANCIENT RACE

Archaeological Remains of Importance Found in Peru.

Region Near Lake Titicaca Excavated and Tombs Are Discovered—Body of Princess Buried 8,000 Years B. C., Is Recovered.

San Francisco.—Archaeological remains of vast importance to the critical historian and anthropologist and which contribute valuable new evidence, if not an entirely new theory, upon the origin and history of races, are being unearthed in Peru by treasure hunters and scientists, according to Charles R. Kehler, an American mining engineer, who arrived in San Francisco a few days ago from the land of the Incas. Mr. Kehler has just completed a mining survey of the region south of Lake Titicaca, and while prospecting near Arequipa, his Indian workmen discovered a number of small tumuli, which proved to be the tombs of people of an ancient race.

The bodies had been embalmed in the same manner as the Egyptian mummies, and the tombs contained, many statues and idols of immense interest in historic anthropology. One tomb contained the mummified remains of a princess in an excellent state of preservation. The body was found in a sitting posture, with the feet drawn up under the thigh and the hands folded across the breast. The body was wrapped in a long cloth of the finest linen, in which had been woven pictorial and hieroglyphical designs. The body was adorned with a heavy gold breast plate, necklace, wristlets and anklets, and carried under each arm a golden vase. One of these vases was the deceased's cocoa bowl, in which a quantity of the prepared cocoa leaves and lime still remained.

Professor Hiram Bingham, who is at the head of an exploring expedition from Yale university, has made several similar discoveries, but what is considered more important than the treasure recovered is the finding of a number of idols and images which throws hitherto unknown light upon the customs and physiological peculiarities of the people.

The tombs discovered near Arequipa, according to the archaeologists, were closed at least 8,000 years B. C. They belong to a pre-Inca race, either the Chilas, Sanaseras or the Huallas. Among the interesting images brought north by Mr. Kehler, one is of a god which bears a striking resemblance to the early Coptic reliefs found at Knossus, in Egypt. This silver and copper, and is of exquisite workmanship.

Another image recovered to which attaches especial interest is the figure of a man-god, the physical characteristics of which coincide with those of the mummified bodies. It also bears a marked resemblance to the Egyptians. The curved nose, running straight from the forehead, eyes and thick lips, are closely like the sculptured heads which have been recovered of Tahutmes III., Princess Nefert and of early Egyptian kings in limestone at Karaak.

These images, together with the methods of embalming, the art objects and household and industrial implements, it is believed, give strong grounds for concluding that the civilization of the Egyptians of the historic period and the ancient Peruvians came from the same source, or that the Egyptians got their civilization from the Peruvians.

COLLIES TO HERD REINDEER

Uncle Sam Hires Blue-Blooded Scions to Teach the Plebeian Canines of Alaska.

Seattle, Wash.—Lass and Major, blue-blooded collies, who date their ancestry back to the coming of some Collie William the Conqueror to Bonnie Scotland, have been hired by Uncle Sam to educate the dogs of Alaska. Their particular field of activity will be instructing collies, shepherds and huskies of the wild north in the herding of government reindeer.

When the steamship St. Helens sails from this port Lass and Major as well as four other collies of less aristocratic strain will be passengers. They will be in charge of A. N. Evans, superintendent of the northwest district for the department of education. Among the places they will visit will be St. Michael, Teller and St. Lawrence island.

At the last local bench show Lass and Major took blue ribbons and special prizes against the field. They were purchased from Mrs. A. Stinson of this city recently, and Major made the transfer memorable by falling into the hands of the pound master. He was rescued from prison by W. T. Lopp, chief of the Alaskan division, department of education, very much soiled and worn out with his adventures about the city. At herding collies excel every breed of dog known to man, and Lass and Major, being almost intelligent enough to speak English, are expected to accomplish wonders with the native dogs of the north. Some doubt is expressed whether or not they will readily learn the Eskimo and Indian dialects of northern dogdom, but Mr. Lopp and Mr. Evans think that a short acquaintance in Alaska will make them proficient in tongues.

This is especially true in Baker county, where the streams are full of trout and quail are abundant. THE THIRD PARTY ISSUE.

The choosing of a candidate for governor by the Republican State Central Committee last Saturday, in itself a proceeding unprecedented in the history of Ohio politics, and the row consequent upon the final action of the Committee calls once more to the attention of the people, the fact that perhaps never before in the history of this nation has there been more unrest and more shifting for the final battle, among the voters.

It is certain that never in the last three score years have there been such conditions. Possibly the chaos which now reigns in the ranks of the Republican party was equaled in the first years of its existence but certainly not since. Possibly, too, in the infancy of the Republic political lines may have undergone more lightning like shifting and more revolutionery changing, but even that is doubtful.

One of the strangest features in the whole political maelstrom is the cause of it all—an ex-president honored with two terms in the highest office within the gift of the people of the greatest nation on earth, himself a seeker for the nomination at the hands of the party he now seeks to destroy and has already rent asunder, perhaps, placing it beyond the hope of victory.

In addition to that, the leader of the third party ticket is most vehement in his denunciation of the man he himself chose as his successor, and labored early and late for his nomination and election.

With an audacity which has never before been equaled in American politics this man now seeks for himself that which Washington declined and that which Grant was denied—a third term in the presidential chair. Denied at the hands of his own party that third term which the sacred law of long established precedent forbids, he launches forth on his own hook without the pale of all political organizations and in launching that movement so unheard of and undreamed of in American politics has created a condition that the election laws of almost every state in the union contain no provision to govern; creating a condition which may seriously tax the machinery of the Electoral College to deal with.

It is a movement not only unheard of and undreamed of in American politics, but one which may easily lead to serious consequences. Neither can the movement be laughed off as of no consequence. It is a real and substantial movement which will appeal to many thousands, possibly millions of Americans who are attracted by the "passing show" and follow and enjoy the spectacular disregarding the consequences.

The new movement is founded upon the idea that one man is indispensable to the Government—there can be no denying that fact. That idea in itself is most dangerous to this form of government. From that to succession on account of birth is a narrow span and easily crossed.

In a nation of over ninety millions of enlightened people the perpetuation of no individual in office is essential to the welfare of the nation and the preservation of the rights of the people.

We have reached just that issue and the third party movement presents it squarely. It is not necessary to launch into a grade of abuse of Colonel Roosevelt and his plans and purposes, it is not necessary to detract in the least from the glory which his honors have given him, it is sufficient to rest the whole objection upon the one proposition—it would be to establish a dangerous precedent and wreck a sacred rule of the Republic to elect Colonel Roosevelt. To do so would be to acknowledge that he only is capable of serving the people as chief executive. To do so would be to proclaim that he is more indispensable than Washington and greater than Grant; that great as the crisis was when Washington declined a third term and grave as the menace was when Grant was denied, yet after one hundred and thirty six years of advancement along all lines and prosperity, the equal of which history fails to record, we have arrived at a place where the destinies of this great nation the development of its people and its material welfare depend absolutely on one man. That, in reality, is the platform presented by the third party.

Few thinking people (but there are a few) believe it.

American Women Have Worst Walk In the World

By Mrs. ALICE CHRISTAL, Lecturer and Writer, of Ireland

I HEARD a man say you could raise money on a walk. He was quite right. Also A WALK CAN SEND US TO JAIL—at any rate, to an asylum.

When the man said you could raise money on a walk he meant a fine, sturdy, self respecting walk that begot confidence and would inspire some one to LEND MONEY TO THE OWNER.

The walk that might send one to jail is the slouching, furtive walk that makes us an OBJECT OF SUSPICION, and the walk that will send us to the hospital is the narrow shouldered, bowed head, hunched up walk that will place one in the consumptive ward, where we deserve to go if we walk in such a way.

THE AMERICAN WOMAN HAS THE WORST WALK IN THE WORLD.

Poetry—Today

MAN-STUFF.

Give me a taste of the ocean green
And a whiff of a Nor-west wind,
A lift and a dip and a low career;
And the growl of a wake behind;
Give me the feel of a twist and reel
And the crack of a tempest's whip,
For I will not loaf with moss on my keel,
In the arms of a lazy ship.

Sluggards there are who would anchor in,
And would cling to a friendly lee,
But court the wind and the storm and din
And the perils of open sea;
For out in the open the way is wide,
And a man is a man out there—
And I'd rather battle the sea and tide
Than sleep in a stagnant air!

Give me the world, and the work to do
That is cut to the size of Man!
For a fellow will sleep when his shift is through
As a man who has earned it can!
Not for the sinews of manhood wait
The places of rotting ease,
For you find Men out in the storms
of Fate
At the wheel in the roughest seas.

Give me the feel of the twist and reel
And the crack of the tempest's whip,
For I will not loaf with moss on my keel
In the arms of a lazy ship!

IS DIRT GOOD FOR BOYS?

Some folks say: "Oh, let the boy play in the dirt. It is good for him. I wouldn't give a cent for a boy that keeps his clothes clean." That may be all right, but what about the boy's mother? Getting the dirt out of the clothes by the use of old-fashioned yellow soap and slow wash-day methods is hard labor. If the boy's mother uses Easy Task laundry soap, which does half the work for her itself, and which reduces wash-day labor by fifty per cent., it is different. Easy Task is five cents a cake and is the greatest nickel's worth of soap ever sold.

A NEW FARMING COUNTRY

Moyock, North Carolina, Lands, Rich in Plant Life, Are Being Thrown on the Market and Will Soon Be Taken.

District in Heart of Specially Favored Region Where Farming Is Extremely Profitable--Immense Draining Projects Have Revolutionized Things in General--Personal Observations of Chas. H. Parrett, Who Is the Guest of H. C. Hosier, President of the Provident Land Co.

Ridgeville Farms, Moyock, North Carolina, Aug. 10.

Among the most promising farming regions that I have ever had the good fortune to visit in this country is classed the Ridgeville Farms of the Provident Land Company, located just west of Moyock, North Carolina. During my short stay here I have been over a large portion of the 14,000 acres owned by this company and have gained my impressions by close observation.

Their lands are located near the main line of the Norfolk-Southern railroad, about 24 miles directly south of Norfolk, the metropolis of this rapidly growing section of the country. Ten years ago this im-

country with profit, and for the purpose of shipping the company built its own railroad line to Moyock, a distance of two miles, and the line, a narrow gauge, is still in operation. Recently the company completed the work of cutting the timber and practically all the men engaged in that branch of the business have been discharged. With the passing of the saw mill and the logging camp, however, the dawn of a better day was ushered in, and within a short time the whole of this fertile region will be dotted with homes of prosperous farmers, and the wonderfully rich soil will all come under the plow.

districts of similar nature have been organized in the state and 1,000,000 acres are now under process of reclamation at a cost of a little over $4,000,000.00. It is estimated that with the completion of the drainage systems now under way that the tax duplicate of the state will be increased by $20,000,000.00, which is certainly a tribute to the enterprise and judgment of these Ohio men, Messrs. Hoiser, Lukens and Seips, who were the instigators of this gigantic reclamation service.

At the present time the lands of district No. 1, wherein are located more than half of the lands of the Provident Land Co., are pierced by immense canals running from 20 to 40 feet wide and eight to 10 feet deep. The dredges that have performed this work have been in operation for over two years, working day and night. The main canal is 9 miles long and carries the water of the wet lands directly to the sound. It has completely revolutionized everything and the Southern farmers to a man are amazed. Many of these sturdy citizens were at first angry because of the proposed drainage and very few were favorable. It was deemed by them an impossible thing and a wanton waste of money. They were used to the water from the "Swamp" coming down on their farm lands, and they had no faith in any proposition to change conditions. Today these same people are the warmest friends of the Provident Land Co. Their lands are dry and flooding is a thing of the past; crops have been doubled and North Carolina has been transformed, seemingly, in a night.

The awakening finds the management of the Provident Land Co., as usual in the fore ground. They are bending every effort to make the most out of the rich land, beckoning on every hand to the husbandman. This year the company has nearly 1500 acres under cultivation, principally in corn, soy beans, onions and cotton, yet considerable areas of peanuts, artichokes, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, celery, etc., are being cultivated. All of the crops are looking fine, although the season this year has been a little dry and cool. I measured corn in one field 13 1-2 feet high. An average yield of 50 bushels per acre is anticipated, and this notwithstanding the fact that a crop of Irish potatoes was grown on some of the land before the corn was planted. Great stress is laid upon the fact that two crops can be men's property, part of which is embraced in what is known as the "Dismal Swamp," was taken over by the Carolina Land and Lumber Company, recently absorbed by the Provident Land Company, of which Messrs. Harry C. Hoiser and A. B. Lukens, former residents of Fayette County, Ohio, and John Seip, of Chillicothe were the prime movers. The untimely death of Mr. Lukens a few weeks ago was a severe loss to the company, owing to the fact that he was a very energetic and progressive business man and very active in the stupendous affairs of the concern. Since the death of Mr. Lukens a great deal more responsibility has been assumed by Mr. Hosier, the President, who has called to his aid competent assistants and is carrying along to completion the various farming and colonizing plans of the great concern.

Heretofore the great problem in this region has been one of drainage, but until Yankee blood came in here in search of timber, the Southern farmers were satisfied to surround their farming lots with deep ditches and to plant their corn and cotton in ridges. As the management of the timber company proceeded clearing it became evident to them that under this timber and water lay the deepest and finest soil that they had ever seen but to reclaim it was the problem. Here the characteristics of the northern man stepped in, and as the result this section of the "Dismal Swamps" is practically a thing of the past. Civil and government engineers were called on the big tract and lands surrounding Moyock, including Mr.

Originally this immense tract was purchased as a timber proposition solely. Practically the whole of the tract was covered with valuable cypress, tupelo gum, poplar and a fair sprinkling of the yellow pine. High mills were erected, together with stave making plants, and for years the average output was about 20,000 feet of lumber and 40,000 staves daily. The most modern logging machines were used, mounted on cars and propelled and operated by small locomotives, by means of which monster logs were drawn through the forest and loaded on cars without the use of horses. The great quantities of lumber produced were shipped to various parts of the

F. M. Kennedy of Washington C. H. and the ground work of an immense system of drainage was laid. State officials became interested, and the matter found its way into the legislature, where a law was passed providing for the dredging of large canals on petition of the land holders assessing the cost against the abutting property and giving 13 years for payments. The passing of this law, which had its inception in the offices of the Carolina Land & Lumber Co., sounded the death knell of "Dismal Swamp" in this state which even now is a misnomer. It marked the districting of the state of North Carolina, and district No. 1 was formed at Moyock, N. C., of which A. B. Lukens, R. O. Bagley and D. A. Cox, in which the Carolina Land & Lumber Co. placed $8,000 acres. Since that time 60 drainage raised from this land every year. The onion crop is just now being gathered and will bring an average of $200 per acre.

Corn has been raised continuously on the same land in this section for 50 years, without rotation, but the crop gradually grows poorer. Good corn is now being raised by farmers on similar lands who plant soy beans in the corn rows. Better results are obtained by rotating with soy beans and oats. Wheat will not grow here, but everything else that grows in Fayette county, together with many things that will not grow there, flourishes here.

Soy beans are to the Carolina lands what clover is to Ohio lands, but the soy bean has the advantage in that it can be made into hay, after the pods start, thereby making a feed that is both corn and hay to horses, cattle, hogs, sheep and even chickens. It produces about three tons per acre and one crop can immediately follow another. Seed sells for one dollar per bushel and twenty five bushels per acre is an average crop.

Artichokes, peanuts and late sweet potatoes yield plentifully and sell readily. They also make excellent feed for hogs, which fatten quickly after being turned into the field. Early sweet potatoes are prolific yielders and bring high prices in all markets. Just now a train load each day is shipped over the Norfolk-Southern from this section of North Carolina to the big markets.

Celery is regarded as one of the money making crops that will be raised extensively in this new land, conditions being said to be extremely favorable. I was informed by Mr. D. L. Bates, a New York farmer, who settled here last January, that he then purchased land, cleared a portion, worked it, planted less than one acre in celery and from the same sold $800 worth of celery in June. That is certainly "going some." Mr. Bates is now setting his fall plants, but does not expect to realize such high prices on the product owing to northern competition late in the season, but growing two crops in one season makes the land doubly valuable. Next year the Urovident Land Company and Mr. Bates will put in fifteen acres of celery and they estimate the yield for the two crops will bring them $30,000. Br. Bates is a man of experience in truck farming and is highly elated over the prospects.

Truck farming in this district is extremely profitable, and all those who devote themselves studiously to this work are doing well. Hundreds of dollars worth of produce are annually taken from an acre of land.

The raising of hogs is also being established in Norfolk. Two years ago the first car load of hogs was shipped from Moyock. Last year 6 car loads were shipped and this year taken up extensively and slaughtering and packing houses have been it is thought that 25 loads will be sold from this district. Throughout this locality hog cholera is unknown. Highly improved brood sows and boars from the northern states have been imported by the farmers. It is claimed that hogs can be raised for one half the cost in northern states. Green stuff can be fed ten months in the year. The Provident Land Co. is now feeding 200 head.

Among the enterprising farmers and business men of Moyock is Mr. R. O. Bagley, who formerly lived on the Hudson river in New York. He settled here several years ago, at a time when none of the trains stopped at the little town, then containing less than half a dozen houses. Moyock has since grown to have a population of over 200 and has a tax duplicate around $200,000.00. There are good schools for the whites and for the colored people, supported by a very low tax rate. In fact all taxes are very low as is also appraisements for the duplicate. Mr. Bagley in addition to farming is a buyer and shipper of corn and cotton. All the corn sold and grown in this and a few surrounding counties is white, and all is exported to Germany, where it is used exclusively for the German cavalry. The corn is known as the Horse Tooth variety, and is of a very long, deep grain on a slender cob. I am told that efforts made to raise this corn in other localities invariably fail, and the claim is made that, while this corn maintains itself here, it quickly degenerates elsewhere. This is partially accounted for in the claim that this region extending to Albamarle Sound produces more foliage in a given length of time than any other section in the United States. Mr. Bagley claims that this corn always sells at a premium of 10 cents and more per bushel over the market prices of corn throughout the country, and he produced records to prove that in January last he was paying net 73 cents for corn delivered to him, while at the same time the Chicago market price was only 64 1-2 cents per bushel. He calls attention to the fact that the price of corn in Fayette county, Ohio must at the same time have been 8 to 10 cents below the Chicago price. He also points to the wonderful advantages of this section over Ohio in the freight rates to the Seaboard, the rate from here being 4 cents while in Ohio it is 17 cents per 100 pounds.

Br. Bagley stated that when he located here land was worth from $5 to $15 per acre. A few days ago a large farm near town sold at $62.50 per acre, and highly improved farms have sold recently as high as $125 per acre. He himself owns a beautiful farm of 125 acres, which I visited and for which he paid $1,300.00 in 1894. This farm has been brought to the highest point in cultivation, and Mr. Bagley has several times re-said to be practically unknown. Sun stroke is unknown. The days are warm, but not excessively hot, while the nights are always cool enough to admit of sleeping under a light covering. Several of the main roads are quite good and there is a growing demand for extensive road improvement. On the day preceding my arrival here a mass meeting of farmers from all over the district was held at the County Court House in the interest of good roads.

As an experiment the Provident Land Co., two years ago planted a few dozen English Walnut trees, famous producers of California. The trees bore last year and although young are well loaded at this time. The management is pleased with the success of the experiment so far and sincerely hope within the next few years to demonstrate beyond a doubt that this section is a model English walnut country. Then groves will be set out and all canal banks will be lined with the trees. Such nuts retail from 20 to 25 cents per pound, so that it will be seen that the English walnut is a valuable farm product. Pecans and figs are also successfully grown here.

It would be possible to continue in this strain almost indefinitely, without exaggerating the conditions and prospects in this favored region. Being blessed with a black loam soil from 2 to 10 feet deep, black as your hat, plenty of rain fall and a climate unsurpassed, the possibilities can hardly be over estimated. Add to this the wonderful markets clamoring for the stuff that can be grown here in advance of other places, producing a combination that is very hard to beat. New York is situated 12 hours north by rail, with 5,000,000 hungry souls to feed. Philadelphia with nearly 2,000,000, Baltimore with nearly 1,000,000 and Washington, D. C., with 500,000 people are all closer to this point than New York, while Norfolk, Va., with a population exceeding 125,000 can be reached in one hour. Positively no finer market lies at the door of any farmer in the world.

The Provident Land Co. has more land than it can possibly manage, consequently they will dispose of farms to suit purchaser, providing such persons are respectable and in-that the government statistics show that in the United States in 1911, 26,000,000 acres were planted to cotton yielding 16,000,000 bales or less than 1/2 a bale per acre. Contrasting these figures with the yield of 1 1-3 bales per acre in the Moyock section the vast difference is shown. Cotton brings from $40 to $50 per bale.

In this state as in Ohio the state experiment station is working hard to stimulate farming. At this time these officials are conducting experiments in both corn and cotton farming on the lands of the Provident Land Co. here.

Labor in this country is very cheap, ranging from 85 cents to $1 per day. The men begin work at sun rise and continue until sun down. The water is soft and fine and the general health is good, Malaria, Ague and kindred diseases being

A NEW FARMING COUNTRY

Moyock, North Carolina, Lands, Rich in Plant Life, Are Being Thrown on the Market and Will Soon Be Taken.

District in Heart of Specially Favored Region Where Farming Is Extremely Profitable--Immense Draining Projects Have Revolutionized Things in General--Personal Observations of Chas. H. Parrett, Who Is the Guest of H. C. Hosler, President of the Provident Land Co.

Ridgeville Farms, Moyock, North Carolina, Aug. 10.

Among the most promising farming regions that I have ever had the good fortune to visit in this country is classed the Ridgeville Farms of the Provident Land Company, located just west of Moyock, North Carolina. During my short stay here I have been over a large portion of the 14,000 acres owned by this company and have gained my impressions by close observation.

Their lands are located near the main line of the Norfolk-Southern railroad, about 24 miles directly south of Norfolk, the metropolis of this rapidly growing section of the country. Ten years ago this im-

country with profit, and for the purpose of shipping the company built its own railroad line to Moyock, a distance of two miles, and the line, a narrow gauge, is still in operation. Recently the company completed the work of cutting the timber and practically all the men engaged in that branch of the business have districts of similar nature have been organized in the state and 1,000,000 acres are now under process of reclamation at a cost of a little over $4,000,000.00. It is estimated that with the completion of the drainage systems now under way that the tax duplicate of the state will be increased by $20,000,000.00, which is certainly a tribute to the enterprise and judgment of these Ohio men, Messrs. Hoiser, Lukens and Seips, who were the instigators of this gigantic reclamation service.

At the present time the lands of district No. 1, wherein are located more than half of the lands of the

been discharged.

With the passing of the saw mill and the logging camp, however, the dawn of a better day was ushered in, and within a short time the whole of this fertile region will be dotted with homes of prosperous farmers, and the wonderfully rich soil will all come under the plow.

Provident Land Co., are pierced by immense canals running from 20 to 40 feet wide and eight to 10 feet deep. The dredges that have performed this work have been in operation for over two years, working day and night. The main canal is 9 miles long and carries the water of the wet lands directly to the sound. It has completely revolutionized everything and the Southern farmers to a man are amazed. Many of these sturdy citizens were at first angry because of the proposed drainage and very few were favorable. It was deemed by them an impossible thing and a wanton waste of money. They were used to the water from the "Swamp" coming down on their farm lands, and they had no faith in any proposition to change conditions.

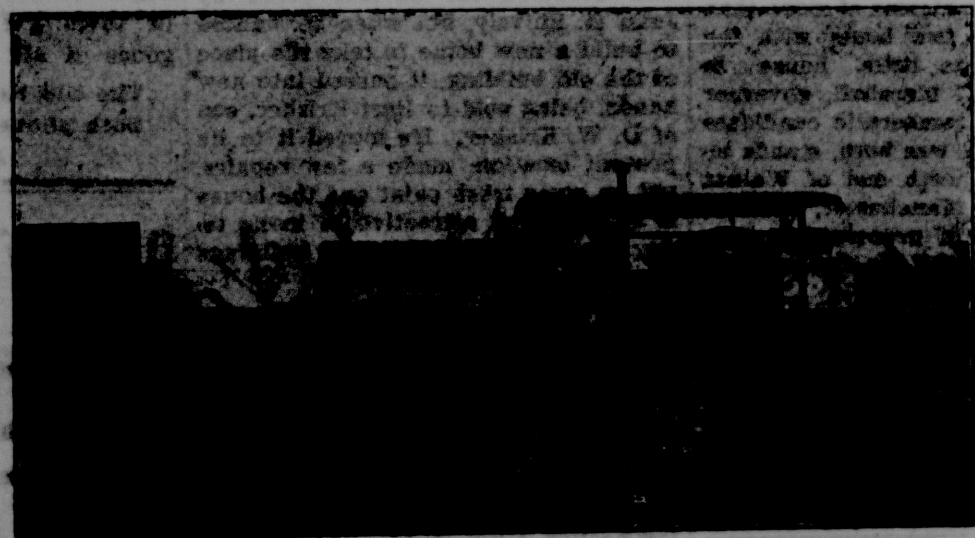

Today these same people are the warmest friends of the Provident Land Co. Their lands are dry and flooding is a thing of the past; crops have been doubled and North Carolina has been transformed, seemingly, in a night.

The awakening finds the management of the Provident Land Co., as usual in the fore ground. They are bending every effort to make the most out of the rich land, beckoning on every hand to the husbandman. This year the company has nearly 1500 acres under cultivation, principally in corn, soy beans, onions and cotton, yet considerable areas of peanuts, artichokes, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, celery, etc., are being cultivated. All of the crops are looking fine, although the season this year has been a little dry and cool. I measured corn in one field 13 1-2 feet high. An average yield of 50 bushels per acre is anticipated, and this notwithstanding the fact that a crop of Irish potatoes was grown on some of the land before the corn was planted. Great stress is laid upon the fact that two crops can be ment property, part of which is embraced in what is known as the "Dismal Swamp," was taken over by the Carolina Land and Lumber Company, recently absorbed by the Provident Land Company, of which Messrs. Harry C. Hoiser and A. B. Lukens, former residents of Fayette County, Ohio, and John Seip, of Chillicothe were the prime movers. The untimely death of Mr. Lukens a few weeks ago was a severe loss to the company, owing to the fact that he was a very energetic and progressive business man and very active in the stupendous affairs of the concern. Since the death of Mr. Lukens a great deal more responsibility has been assumed by Mr. Hosler, the President, who has called to his aid competent assistants and is carrying along to completion the various farming and colonizing plans of the great concern.

Originally this immense tract was purchased as a timber proposition solely. Practically the whole of the tract was covered with valuable cypress, tupelo gum, poplar and a fair sprinkling of the yellow pine. Lumber mills were erected, together with stave making plants, and for years the average output was about 20,000 feet of lumber and 40,000 staves daily. The most modern logging machines were used, mounted on cars and propelled and operated by small locomotives, by means of which monster logs were drawn through the forest and loaded on rafts without the use of horses. The great quantities of lumber produced were shipped to various parts of the

F. M. Kennedy of Washington C. H. and the ground work of an immense system of drainage was laid. State officials became interested, and the matter found its way into the legislature, where a law was passed providing for the dredging of large canals on petition of the land holders assessing the cost against the abutting property and giving 13 years for payments. The passing of this law, which had its inception in the offices of the Carolina Land & Lumber Co., sounded the death knell of "Dismal Swamp" in this state which even now is a misnomer. It marked the districting of the state of North Carolina, and district No. 1 was formed at Moyock, N. C., officered by A. B. Lukens, R. O. Bagley and D. A. Cox, in which the Carolina Land & Lumber Co. placed 8,000 acres. Since that time 60 drainage raised from this land every year. The onion crop is just now being gathered and will bring an average of $200 per acre.

Corn has been raised continuously on the same land in this section for 50 years, without rotation, but the crop gradually grows poorer. Good corn is now being raised by farmers on similar lands who plant soy beans in the corn rows. Better results are obtained by rotating with soy beans and oats. Wheat will not grow here, but everything else that grows in Fayette county, together with many things that will not grow there, flourishes here.

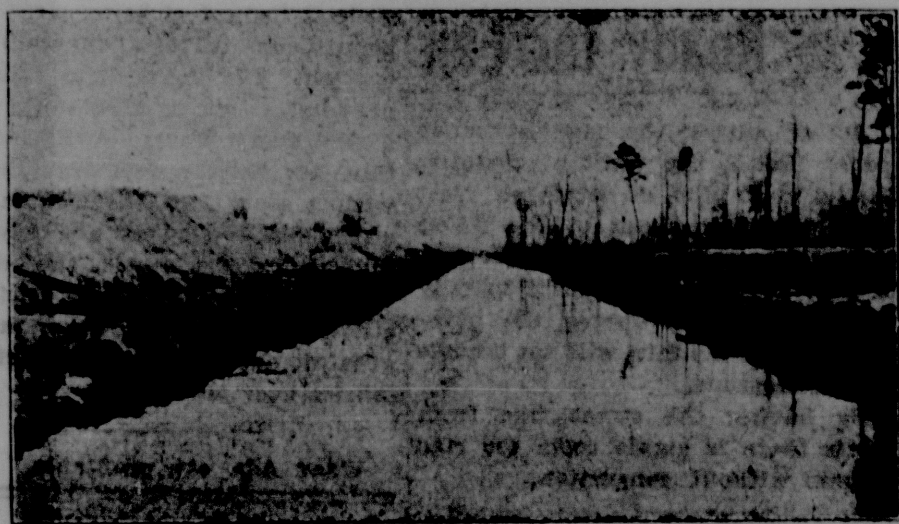

Soy beans are to the Carolina lands what clover is to Ohio lands, but the soy bean has the advantage in that it can be made into hay, after the pods start, thereby making a feed that is both corn and hay to horses, cattle, hogs, sheep and even chickens. It produces about three tons per acre and one crop can immediately follow another. Seed sells for one dollar per bushel and twenty five bushels per acre is an average crop.

Artichokes, peanuts and late sweet potatoes yield plentifully and sell readily. They also make excellent feed for hogs, which fatten quickly after being turned into the field. Early sweet potatoes are prolific yielders and bring high prices in all markets. Just now a train load each day is shipped over the Norfolk Southern from this section of North Carolina to the big markets.

Celery is regarded as one of the money making crops that will be raised extensively in this new land, conditions being said to be extremely favorable. I was informed by Mr. D. L. Bates, a New York farmer, who settled here last January, that he then purchased land, cleared a portion, worked it, planted less than one acre in celery and from the same sold $800 worth of celery in June. That is certainly "going some." Mr. Bates is now setting his fall plants, but does not expect to realize such high prices on the product owing to northern competition late in the season, but growing two crops in one season makes the land doubly valuable. Next year the Urovident Land Company and Mr. Bates will put in fifteen acres of celery and they estimate the yield for the two crops will bring them $30,000. Mr. Bates is a man of experience in truck farming and is highly elated over the prospects.

Truck farming in this district is extremely profitable, and all those who devote themselves studiously to this work are doing well. Hundreds of dollars worth of produce are annually taken from an acre of land.

The raising of hogs is also being established in Norfolk. Two years ago the first car load of hogs was shipped from Moyock. Last year 6 car loads was shipped and this year taken up extensively and slaughtering and packing houses have been it is thought that 25 loads will be sold from this district. Throughout this locality hog cholera is unknown. Highly improved brood sows and boars from the northern states have been imported by the farmers. It is claimed that hogs can be raised for one half the cost in northern states. Green stuff can be fed ten months in the year. The Provident Land Co. is now feeding 200 head.

Among the enterprising farmers and business men of Moyock is Mr. R. O. Bagley, who formerly lived on the Hudson river in New York. He settled here several years ago, at a time when none of the trains stopped at the little town, then containing less than half a dozen houses. Moyock has since grown to have a population of over 200 and has a tax duplicate around $200,000.00. SUICIDE WAS FORMER FAYETTE COUNTY BOY

Prof. James Hays Corey Ends Life Near Buckeye Lake by Using Clothesline—Was the Brother of Isaac Corey, of Good Hope, Who Calls Sister to Break News and Is Informed Sister's Husband Had Just Died

Prof. James H. Corey, who ended his life Monday by hanging himself to a bridge on the Lancaster road near Buckeye Lake, was raised in this county near West Lancaster, and was a brother to Mr. Isaac Corey of Good Hope.

The man had been in ill health for some time and despondency over this caused him to end his life. He used a piece of clothes line. Mrs. Corey, at the time seriously ill, is now at the point of death. A son also survives the father. Some 14 years ago Mr. Corey was confined to the State Hospital for the insane.

Several years ago Mr. Corey married Miss Addie Hawes of near West Lancaster, lived in the west for a short time, and then returning to Ohio he located at London, where he was on an Ohio Electric car for three years.

Later he taught school at London and from there went to Granville where he secured a professorship in the Doane Academy, preparatory school of the Dennison University. He was 36 years of age.

Mr. Isaac Corey was informed of his brother's death about noon Monday, and he at once placed a long distance call for his sister, Mrs. Uriah Paullin of near Jamestown, but before he received an answer to his call his sister called him informing him of the sudden death of her husband who was stricken with paralysis a few days ago and died suddenly Monday. Mrs. Paullin was then informed of her brother's death.

Mr. Corey came to this city to take the evening train for Granville and had not learned the cause of his brother's death until informed by a Herald reporter that his brother's body was found swinging to a bridge near Granville.

Interment will be made at Jamestown, where the remains of Mr. Paullin will also probably be interred.

Will Urge Sale Of D. T. & I.

In behalf of Ohio shippers and patrons of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad, who complain that the road is giving inadequate service, Attorney General Hogan and O. P. Gohl, chairman of the public service commission, will go to Detroit this evening to confer with Judge Albert Tuttle of the United States circuit court for southern Michigan, to urge the sale of the road by the receivers Oct. 1.

Ohio shippers say that they have lost heavily on account of the road not being able to handle their wares and that conditions are growing worse all the time. Orders of the public service commission for better service have been practically ineffective because the road has been under the control of a federal receiver.

Officials believe the road will be unable to extricate itself from its financial difficulties and that the sooner it is sold and reorganized the better it will be for all.

It is generally expected that the N. & W. railroad will secure control of the road, and that the appointment of Receiver Johnson to the position he now holds was the first step toward such a change.

Street Cleared Ready for Fair

Get in the Swim Classes Next Week

The Young Men's Christian Association will conduct a special swimming campaign for one whole week, in order that all the boys and men of the town and county may learn this splendid art of exercise, and life saving.

Mr. W. McClung, the recently elected instructor will have charge of the campaign and will instruct in the pool. There will be four classes each day, as follows: Juniors 10 to 11 a. m.; business and professional men 3:30 to 4:30 p. m.; intermediates 7 to 8 p. m. and seniors from 8 to 9 p. m. Tickets for the week will be issued to all men and boys not members of the Association for the whole week. Members desiring to take advantage of this opportunity to learn to swim will call at the Y. M. C. A. and get a free ticket.

The campaign starts August 19 and continues the whole week. It is hoped many of our people will get in the swim.

OLD MARSHALL HOMESTEAD

House in North Manchester, Ind., Where Democratic Candidate for Vice-President Was Born.

North Manchester, Ind.—Though it has withstood the storms of more than sixty years, and two bouts with the house movers, the little house in which Thomas R. Marshall, governor of Indiana, and Democratic candidate for vice-president, was born, stands today well to the north end of Walnut street, in North Manchester, Indiana, in a better state of preservation than many houses of half its age and experience.

In 1854 the house stood on the lot fronting on Main street, that is now occupied by the Lawrence National bank, and was occupied by Dr. Daniel Marshall, who, besides doctoring the sick, was also a merchant of considerable importance, being connected with his brothers in managing the biggest store of this locality at that time. As time went on they disposed of this store, and after the war broke out the doctor moved with his family to Pierceton, when the future governor was slightly over six years of age. Men who have grown gray remember Thomas Marshall as a boy, but he was too young when his folks left for him to build a new home to take the place of the building in which he was born was moved from its first location to give room to a business building, and was occupied for several years by John H. Shively, but when he wanted to build a new home to take the place of the old building, it passed into new hands, being sold to Bart Krisher, son of D. W. Krisher. He moved it to its present location, made a few repairs, put on some fresh paint and the house is as neat and attractive in looks today as many of the newer buildings around it.

Saturday night the Health Officer condemned a quantity of decaying peaches at the Thabit store, and Thabit took the matter up with Mayor Smith, who quickly informed him that he could consider himself fortunate in not having charges filed against him.

"This is the last time I am going to be in line with you," said Mayor Smith to one of those in charge of the store, "and I intend looking into the present offense still further with a view to placing charges against you for violating the Pure Food Laws of Ohio."

Thabit went to Cincinnati and was not expected back until evening when he may face charges filed for the protection of the health of the community on account of offering impure and unwholesome provisions for sale.

Girl Walks to Work Asleep.

Miss Nellie Lerra, a pretty young girl of Point township, in her sleep early this morning arose from her bed and walked to a local cap factory, where she was an employee. She was barefooted and attired only in a flimsy low-necked night gown. She was not seen by anybody and finally reached the factory and was about to try to enter when the tooting of a locomotive close by woke her.

Realizing her predicament, the girl grew excited and ran back home at top speed. She fell senseless from nervous exhaustion to the floor of her home.—Northumberland Correspondent Pittsburgh Post.

An unsophisticated resident of a small town up the state had never been in court before, and was not familiar with the interrogative manner in which a lawyer juggles a witness. When he returned home in the evening a friend asked him how he had made out.

"Oh, I made out all right," he replied, "but I never saw such a bum lot of lawyers in my life."

"What was the matter with them?" queried the friend.

"A whole lot was the matter with them," answered the witness. "Judging from the million questions they asked me, there ain't a durned one of them knows anything about the case."

SUICIDE WAS FORMER FAYETTE COUNTY BOY

Prof. James Hays Corey Ends Life Near Buckeye Lake by Using Clothesline—Was the Brother of Isaac Corey, of Good Hope, Who Calls Sister to Break News and Is Informed Sister's Husband Had Just Died

Prof. James H. Corey, who ended his life Monday by hanging himself to a bridge on the Lancaster road near Buckeye Lake, was raised in this county near West Lancaster, and was a brother to Mr. Isaac Corey of Good Hope.

The man had been in ill health for some time and despondency over this caused him to end his life. He used a piece of clothes line. Mrs. Corey, at the time seriously ill, is now at the point of death. A son also survives the father. Some 14 years ago Mr. Corey was confined to the State Hospital for the insane.

Several years ago Mr. Corey married Miss Addie Hawes of near West Lancaster, lived in the west for a short time, and then returning to Ohio he located at London, where he was on an Ohio Electric car for three years.

Later he taught school at London and from there went to Granville where he secured a professorship in the Doane Academy, preparatory school of the Denison University. He was 36 years of age.

Mr. Isaac Corey was informed of his brother's death about noon Monday, and he at once placed a long distance call for his sister, Mrs. Uriah Paulin of near Jamestown, but before he received an answer to his call his sister called him informing him of the sudden death of her husband who was stricken with paralysis a few days ago and died suddenly Monday. Mrs. Paulin was then informed of her brother's death.

Mr. Corey came to this city to take the evening train for Granville and had not learned the cause of his brother's death until informed by a Herald reporter that his brother's body was found swinging to a bridge near Granville.

Interment will be made at Jamestown, where the remains of Mr. Paulin will also probably be interred.

Will Urge Sale Of D. T. & I.

In behalf of Ohio shippers and patrons of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad, who complain that the road is giving inadequate service, Attorney General Hogan and O. P. Gothlin, chairman of the public service commission, will go to Detroit this evening to confer with Judge Albert Tuttle of the United States circuit court for southern Michigan, to urge the sale of the road by the receivers Oct. 1.

Ohio shippers say that they have lost heavily on account of the road not being able to handle their wares and that conditions are growing worse all the time. Orders of the public service commission for better service have been practically ineffective because the road has been under the control of a federal receiver.

Officials believe the road will be unable to extricate itself from its financial difficulties and that the sooner it is sold and reorganized the better it will be for all.

It is generally expected that the N. & W. railroad will secure control of the road, and that the appointment of Receiver Johnson to the position he now holds was the first step toward such a change.

Street Cleared Ready for Fair

Acting under the suggestion of Mayor Smith, the work of cleaning up the huge piles of debris on West Court street in front of the Allen block, commenced Monday afternoon so that the street, which is usually greatly congested during the principal days of the fair, will not become more dangerous.

By having the street free from debris there is ample room for rigs to pass without congestion.

INDIAN KILLED ON TRACK.

Near Rochelle, Ill., an Indian went to sleep on a railroad track and was killed by the fast express. He paid for his carelessness with his life. Often it is that way when people neglect coughs and colds. Don't risk your life when prompt use of Dr. King's New Discovery will cure them and so prevent a dangerous throat or lung trouble. "It completely cured me, in a short time, of a terrible cough that followed a severe attack of Grip," writes J. R. Watts, Floydada, Tex., "and I regained 15 pounds in weight that I had lost." Quick, safe reliable and guaranteed. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free at Blackmer and Tanquary.

SIXTH ANNUAL PICNIC

Get in the Swim Cless Next Week.

The Young Men's Christian Association will conduct a special swimming campaign for one whole week, in order that all the boys and men of the town and county may learn this splendid art of exercise, and life saving.

Mr. W. McClung, the recently elected instructor will have charge of the campaign and will instruct in the pool. There will be four classes each day, as follows: Juniors 10 to 11 a. m.; business and professional men 3:30 to 4:30 p. m.; intermediates 7 to 8 p. m. and seniors from 8 to 9 p. m. Tickets for the week will be issued to all men and boys not members of the Association for the whole week. Members desiring to take advantage of this opportunity to learn to swim will call at the Y. M. C. A. and get a free ticket.

The campaign starts August 19 and continues the whole week. It is hoped many of our people will get in the swim.

THE "DONE UP" SHIRT WAIST.

Half of the looks of a shirt waist depend on the way it is done up. If it is washed with cheap strong yellow soap, so that it gets streaked and stained instead of being cleaned and beautified, it is "done up" sure enough. The woman who values her personal appearance—and that means every woman—will see to it that her shirt waists are laundered with a soap that leaves them white and clean and sweet and new-looking. Easy Task soap is the only one that will do this. Same price as others—five cents a cake, and the greatest enemy to dirt and friend to fabrics ever made.

Five-cent Watermelons Sent to the City Dump

Tuesday morning a large placard "5c each" on a large pile of decaying water melons offered for sale by Willis Thabit, the Syrian who runs a fruit store in the Passmore building on Court street, attracted the attention of members of the Board of Health, who called upon Mayor Smith and he inspected the melons, ordering them to the city dump with out delay under penalty of a fine to the limit under the pure food laws.

The melons were full of decayed spots and were anything else but wholesome. As this is not the first or second or third time Thabit has offered provisions for sale that did not meet with the approval of the Health Board, he may yet face charges of violation of the pure food laws, which are very strict on offering impure articles of food for sale.

Saturday night the Health Officer condemned a quantity of decaying peaches at the Thabit store, and Thabit took the matter up with Mayor Smith, who quickly informed him that he could consider himself fortunate in not having charges filed against him.

"This is the last time I am going to be lenient with you," said Mayor Smith to one of those in charge of the store, "and I intend looking into the present offense still further with a view to placing charges against you for violating the Pure Food Laws of Ohio."

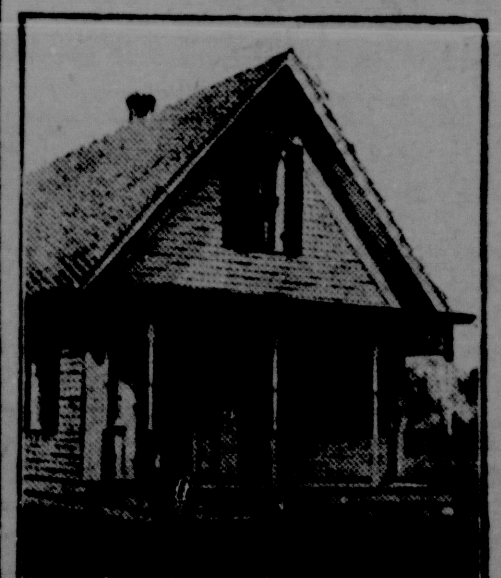

Thabit went to Cincinnati and was not expected back until evening when he may face charges filed for the protection of the health of the community on account of offering impure and unwholesome provisions for sale.

OLD MARSHALL HOMESTEAD

House in North Manchester, Ind., Where Democratic Candidate for Vice-President Was Born.

North Manchester, Ind.—Though it has withstood the storms of more than sixty years, and two bouts with the house movers, the little house in which Thomas R. Marshall, governor of Indiana, and Democratic candidate for vice-president, was born, stands today well to the north end of Walnut street, in North Manchester, Indiana, in a better state of preservation than many houses of half its age and experience.

In 1854 the house stood on the lot fronting on Main street, that is now occupied by the Lawrence National bank, and was occupied by Dr. Daniel Marshall, who, besides doctoring the sick, was also a merchant of considerable importance, being connected

INDORSEMENT OF MOOSERS SOUGHT BY DR. HUGHEY

Petitions Out to Place Name of Local Candidate on Progressive Ticket.

DR. HUGHEY GIVES HIS REASONS

Says Platform Same as Two Years Ago, and That He Was Nominated by Both Factions and That His Latest Move Is Due to Demand of Progressives---Does Not Believe He Should Be Forced to Take Either Side of Fence.

Some little surprise was manifested in this city when it became known Tuesday morning that petitions were out in Springfield to place the name of Dr. R. M. Hughey, Republican nominee for Congress from the Seventh District, upon the Progressive ticket, although some of his friends have been advocating such a movement for some little time to insure the support of the combined factions. These petitions were distributed Monday and it is expected that they will be filed within the next day or two, placing Dr. Hughey's name on the progressive ticket for Congressman from this district. No petitions will be circulated in this county, it is understood.

It was the intention of the Bull Moose leaders in Clark county to take action toward naming a candidate for Congress Thursday of this week, and it is now more than probable that they will endorse Dr. R. M. Hughey's candidacy and that he will be the candidate on both the regular Republican ticket and the so called "Progressive" ticket.

Regarding this action in becoming the candidate of both tickets, Dr. Hughey said:

"My platform was made two years ago when I was a candidate, and is well known. My platform this year is identical with that of two years ago. I have made no changes in it. As I was nominated at the recent primary election as a Republican, and before the disturbance had taken the turn it has, there is now no reason why I should be forced to declare myself one way or the other, as I still stand for the same policies I advocated before the primary. And since a large number of a majority who voted for me in the primary election were of the progressive type of Republicans and now desire an opportunity to support me on the progressive ticket, I could not do other than accept and deem it an honor."

Found No Trace Of Man's Friends

Coroner L. P. Howell has been continuing the effort to reach relatives of Fredrick McDougal, the man who was killed by the street fair ferris wheel falling upon him several weeks ago, but so far has not succeeded in locating his relatives.

The Navy Department, to which Coroner Howell appealed, found that the man's local address in Milwaukee was 61 W. Water street, but this proved to be a saloon and boarding house where he was not known.

The proprietors of the place stated that if McDougal was the man they had in mind, that they thought his home was in Boston. So far no word has been received that would offer the slightest clue as to where his relatives are.

Stock Company At the Empire

Over a hundred were turned away from the Empire Theater last night, where Dainty Mae LaPorte and her clever company put on the first play of a week's stand—"Just Plain Mary."

Manager Dale is greatly pleased over the enthusiastic reception given by the immense audience and is convinced that he has secured the best of the popular priced companies.

The costumes are the handsomest ever carried by any company at the Empire and the company plays a superior line of royalty plays.

Tonight the company plays Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall and the Dorothy Vernon co. will give sample bottles of this perfume as souvenirs to every woman.

INDORSEMENT OF MOOSERS SOUGHT BY DR. HUGHEY

Petitions Out to Place Name of Local Candidate on Progressive Ticket.

DR. HUGHEY GIVES HIS REASONS

Says Platform Same as Two Years Ago, and That He Was Nominated by Both Factions and That His Latest Move Is Due to Demand of Progressives---Does Not Believe He Should Be Forced to Take Either Side of Fence.

Some little surprise was manifested in this city when it became known Tuesday morning that petitions were out in Springfield to place the name of Dr. R. M. Hughey, Republican nominee for Congress from the Seventh District, upon the Progressive ticket, although some of his friends have been advocating such a movement for some little time to insure the support of the combined factions.

These petitions were distributed Monday and it is expected that they will be filed within the next day or two, placing Dr. Hughey's name on the progressive ticket for Congressman from this district. No petitions will be circulated in this county, it is understood.

It was the intention of the Bull Moose leaders in Clark county to take action toward naming a candidate for Congress Thursday of this week, and it is now more than probable that they will endorse Dr. R. M. Hughey's candidacy and that he will be the candidate on both the regular Republican ticket and the so called "Progressive" ticket.

Regarding this action in becoming the candidate of both tickets, Dr. Hughey said:

"My platform was made two years ago when I was a candidate, and is well known. My platform this year is identical with that of two years ago. I have made no changes in it.

"As I was nominated at the recent primary election as a Republican, and before the disturbance had taken the turn it has, there is now no reason why I should be forced to declare myself one way or the other, as I still stand for the same policies I advocated before the primary. And since a large number of a majority who voted for me in the primary election were of the progressive type of Republicans and now desire an opportunity to support me on the progressive ticket, I could not do other than accept and deem it an honor."

Delta Delta Delta is the fourth largest college sorority in the country and was founded in 1888 at Boston University.

FOR A LAW ABOVE PARENTAL

Surgeon Advocates Compulsory Operations for Relief of Deformed Children.

The question of compulsory operations upon crippled and defective children, which was decided by Judge Sulzberger at Philadelphia as entirely a matter for the discretion of the parents, has found a vehement protestant in Dr. E. A. Spitzka. The brain specialist comes forward with the statement that these operations should be made compulsory by legislative enactment. Doctor Spitzka said:

"Parents should not be permitted to prevent an operation upon a child when that operation was absolutely necessary for the child's good. If a conference of surgeons finds it is possible to correct some physical deformity by an operation, then no parent should be permitted to step in and prevent that child from having at least a normal chance to compete with the rest of mankind.

"The good of the community should be considered first and laws should be made that the parents must be forced to hand over the child for an operation at the hands of competent experts when it is deemed necessary to have an operation."

Found No Trace Of Man's Friends

Coroner L. P. Howell has been continuing the effort to reach relatives of Fredrick McDougal, the man who was killed by the street fair ferris wheel falling upon him several weeks ago, but so far has not succeeded in locating his relatives.

The Navy Department, to which Coroner Howell appealed, found that the man's local address in Milwaukee was 61 W. Water street, but this proved to be a saloon and boarding house where he was not known.

The proprietors of the place stated that if McDougal was the man they had in mind, that they thought his home was in Boston. So far no word has been received that would offer the slightest clue as to where his relatives are.

A New Farming Country

gies, wagons and up to date machinery. The ridge cultivation so long in vogue in the South is here fading into the level cultivation of the advanced northern farmer, positive proof that the South is about to come into its own. There is room here for many a family to enjoy life and make themselves a competency with a few years of labor.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mackey, who resided for many years in Fayette county, near Jeffersonville, and later on the Hopkins land near Johnson's Crossing, are well located here on a fine farm of 300 acres, nicely improved. Mr. Mackey has taken an active hand in the local affairs of a public nature since locating here, and is highly respected in the neighborhood. Growing upon his farm is one of the famous seppernong grape vines, the one vine covering nearly an acre of ground.

There is no other vine in this whole countryside, but the species is native not very far south. The fruit does not grow in clusters like the ordinary grape, but grows singly, with thousands huddled and matted together. It is pronounced the finest in the world. Mr. Mackey annually makes large quantities of wine, which is vastly different from any other wine known. A number of Washington people have visited this vine before me and tasted the grape and wine, including Messrs. Geo. Jackson, Congressman J. D. Post, Grant Coffman, Dr. A. M. Bush and Deputy Treas. Auburn W. Duff. These gentlemen will be glad to testify to the irresistible qualities of the wonderful Seppernong.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Grim, formerly of Jeffersonville, Ohio, are among the late arrivals here and are located on a fine farm of 175 acres near Moyock. They are meeting with splendid success.

Mr. Harry C. Hosier, President of the Provident Land Company, is preparing to make an extensive exhibit of the farm produce of this company's immense tract at the Ohio State Fair, Columbus, Ohio, and all Fayette County people who visit the State Fair during the last week in August are cordially invited to call at the tent near the east side entrance of the Agricultural Building and inspect the exhibit. To all persons interested who will address the Provident Land Company, Moyock, N. C., Mr. Hosier will gladly send descriptive literature and give freely all information within his command. A cordial invitation is extended to all who care to come here and visit these lands.

Rebel Force Bombarded The City

American Protest Has Little Effect With Nicaraguans.

Managua, Nicaragua, Aug. 13.—The combined rebel forces under General Luis Mena and General Zeledon began a bombardment of the Nicaraguan capital. For several hours the attacking guns were out of range and the shells fell short of their mark. However, gradually the rebel pieces were advanced and shrapnel shell burst frequently over the city. Several persons were wounded.

The bombardment was begun in violation of the armistice arranged by the opposing armies and despite protests made by the American minister, George T. Weltzel, as dean of the diplomatic corps, and by Captain Warren J. Terhune, commander of the United States gunboat Annapolis, now stationed off Corinto, and from which vessel a detachment of blue-jackets and marines was dispatched to this city to protect the lives and property of Americans.

Executions Fail to Stop The Crimes Warden Says

Sing Sing Warden Talks After Seven Are Executed.

Ossining, N. Y., Aug. 13.—As the witnesses passed from the Sing Sing death house, where only a few minutes before seven men had been sent to eternity, Sheriff Harburger of New York congratulated Warden Kennedy on the successful manner in which the executions had been carried out. But he received little encouragement from the brawny head of the prison, who sadly shook his head and said: "There are still 11 in there who will go the same way. It is hard to say whether capital punishment deters."

WHAT THE HAIR BRUSH SHOWS.

"You know they say, Grace, 'A hair in the head is worth twenty in the brush', and my hair was coming out in handfuls before I used Mrs. Mason's Old English Shampoo Cream."

Blackmer & Tanquary, our local druggists in Washington, C. H. recommended it to me and said that it not only had unusual cleansing and antiseptic qualities, but it contains the extract of tonic herbs which when rubbed into the hair during the process of shampooing, stimulates the roots of the hair and makes it grow, and it really has accomplished wonders in my case. After using it my hair is so soft and fluffy it looks twice as thick as it really is."

"It is so easy to wash one's own hair with it and Blackmer & Tanquary are selling it at present for 25c, a tube, enough for several shampoos, and guarantee to return your money if you don't like it."

Denies Cigarette Smoking Story

"But certainly no woman in our household ever has or ever will smoke. Quite apart from the bad taste of it, I believe with you that it has an extremely injurious effect on the nerves."

Back of the interview and the subject of it lies a little mystery which Governor Wilson himself and other members of his family believe may be due to a confusion of names.

There is a Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, also there is a Mrs. Wilson Woodrow. The one is the wife of the presidential nominee and the other is a well-known writer. Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Woodrow were once relatives, for the writer was married to a cousin of the governor. Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, according to all reports by the persons who have been investigating the source of the interview, does smoke. The explanation is that some editor or interviewer got the two women mixed and sent out Mrs. Wilson Woodrow's views as those of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

Catlin Loses His Place Spent Liberally

Missouri Representative Spent Too Much For Election.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Representative Theron E. Catlin of Missouri, Republican, was unseated as a member of the house of representatives and his Democratic opponent, who contested the election, Patrick P. Gill, was seated, amid wild enthusiasm from the Democratic side.

The charge against Mr. Catlin was that he and his family had spent $10,200 to elect him to congress, when the Missouri law prohibited an expenditure by candidates of more than $662.

AMERICAN ARMY BROKE.

Washington, Aug. 13.—For the first time in history the American army has gone broke. Over 60,000 gallant soldier boys are without a penny in their pockets if they have been dependent upon Uncle Sam for the money. They have received no pay from the government since last May and a host of complaints are pouring in on the paymaster general of the army. The extraordinary situation is due to the failure of congress to pass the deficiency appropriation bills.

House and Senate Unable to Agree on Sugar Schedule.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Present indications are that the Underwood excise tax bill will fail of passage at this session. The fate of this measure is dependent on the result of the conference between the two houses on the senate bill providing a reduction in tariff rate on sugar instead of admitting the product duty free as provided in the house bill. A conference on the sugar bill will be held today. The two houses are widely separated on sugar and the Democrats expect to see this bill, as well as the excise measure, fail in conference.

Columbus, O., Aug. 13.—Declaring war on eight of the proposed constitutional amendments on the grounds that delegates to the convention were elected by only 30 per cent of the qualified electors of Ohio, and that some of the measures adopted by them are ill advised and do not voice the true sentiment of a majority of taxpayers, 26 representatives of various organizations, occupations and professions, from points throughout the state, organized the Citizens and Taxpayers' Information league at a meeting here.

Warden Jones Not Gloomy Over Escapes Of Honor Men

Escapades of Honor Prisoners Will Not Change System.

Columbus, O., Aug. 13.—Thomas E. Davey of the state board of administration announced the "honor" system among convicts would not be abolished just because 12 of the honored squad got drunk and terrorized the residence district of Lima, where they were working on the new state hospital.

"These men will be punished for their misbehavior," declared Davey. "All of them will lose good time and have to remain in the penitentiary several months longer than if they had justified the trust placed in them. The three who have not been captured will soon be taken."

Charges Mail Tampering.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Senator La Follette charged officials of the post-office department with rifling his mail in an attempt to learn the results of an investigation he was making into conditions in the postal service. He showed the senate a bundle of letters which he declared had been opened before he received them.

MAN'S SIGHT IS RESTORED

Fall Against Door Gives George Morgan Hope for Complete Recovery.

Wilmington, Del.—Becoming totally blind fourteen weeks ago, George M. Morgan Jr., aged twenty-three years, 1351 East Thirteenth street, had his sight restored to him through an accident. About eleven years ago Morgan was struck in one eye with a stone a small boy had thrown at a freight car. His sight was badly affected and last September he went to St. Joseph's hospital in Baltimore to have his eye treated. While sitting in his boarding house fourteen weeks ago he suddenly became totally blind without any warning whatever.

He came to this city to visit his parents on June 29, and he tripped over a rug and fell, his forehead striking a door-jamb with much force. When he arose he found that he could see the daylight and later developments showed that he could see better than before he went to the hospital last year.

He intends to return to the hospital to continue the treatment, although the physicians told him they did not think he ever would be able to see again. His mother was at the market at the time of the accident and could not believe her son's glad declaration when she returned until he told her the color of her hat and dress and described other things in the room.

A New Farming Country

gies, wagons and up to date machinery. The ridge cultivation so long in vogue in the South is here fading into the level cultivation of the advanced northern farmer, positive proof that the South is about to come into its own. There is room here for many a family to enjoy life and make themselves a competency with a few years of labor.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mackey, who resided for many years in Fayette county, near Jeffersonville, and later on the Hopkins land near Johnson's Crossing, are well located here on a fine farm of 300 acres, nicely improved. Mr. Mackey has taken an active hand in the local affairs of a public nature since locating here, and is highly respected in the neighborhood. Growing upon his farm is one of the famous scuppernon grape vines, the one vine covering nearly an acre of ground.

There is no other vine in this whole countryside, but the species is native not very far south. The fruit does not grow in clusters like the ordinary grape, but grows singly, with thousands huddled and matted together. It is pronounced the finest in the world. Mr. Mackey annually makes large quantities of wine, which is vastly different from any other wine known. A number of Washington people have visited this vine before me and tasted the grape and wine, including Messrs. Geo. Jackson, Congressman J. D. Post, Grant Coffman, Dr. A. M. Bush and Deputy Treas. Auburn W. Duff. These gentlemen will be glad to testify to the irresistible qualities of the wonderful Scuppernon.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Grim, formerly of Jeffersonville, Ohio, are among the late arrivals here and are located on a fine farm of 175 acres near Moyock. They are meeting with splendid success.

Mr. Harry C. Hosier, President of the Provident Land Company, is preparing to make an extensive exhibit of the farm produce of this company's immense tract at the Ohio State Fair, Columbus, Ohio, and all Fayette County people who visit the State Fair during the last week in August are cordially invited to call at the tent near the east side entrance of the Agricultural Building and inspect the exhibit. To all persons interested who will address the Provident Land Company, Moyock, N. C., Mr. Hosier will gladly send descriptive literature and give freely all information within his command. A cordial invitation is extended to all who care to come here and visit these lands.

Rebel Force Bombarded The City

American Protest Has Little Effect With Nicaraguans.

Managua, Nicaragua, Aug. 13.—The combined rebel forces under General Luis Mena and General Zeledon began a bombardment of the Nicaraguan capital. For several hours the attacking guns were out of range and the shells fell short of their mark. However, gradually the rebel pieces were advanced and schrapnel shell burst frequently over the city. Several persons were wounded.

The bombardment was begun in violation of the armistice arranged by the opposing armies and despite protests made by the American minister, George T. Wetzel, as dean of the diplomatic corps, and by Captain Warren J. Terhune, commander of the United States gunboat Annapolis, now stationed off Corinto, and from which vessel a detachment of blue-jackets and marines was dispatched to this city to protect the lives and property of Americans.

Executions Fail to Stop The Crimes Warden Says

Sing Sing Warden Talks After Seven Are Executed.

Ossining, N. Y., Aug. 13.—As the witnesses passed from the Sing Sing death house, where only a few minutes before seven men had been sent to eternity, Sheriff Harburger of New York congratulated Warden Kennedy on the successful manner in which the executions had been carried out. But he received little encouragement from the brawny head of the prison, who sadly shook his head and said: "There are still 11 in there who will go the same way. It is hard to say whether capital punishment deters."

WHAT THE HAIR BRUSH SHOWS.

"You know they say, Grace, 'A hair in the head is worth twenty in the brush', and my hair was coming out in handfuls before I used Mrs. Mason's Old English Shampoo Cream."

Blackmer & Tanquary, our local druggists in Washington C. H. recommended it to me and said that it not only had unusual cleansing and antiseptic qualities, but it contains the extract of tonic herbs which when rubbed into the hair during the process of shampooing, stimulates the roots of the hair and makes it grow, and it really has accomplished wonders in my case. After using it my hair is so soft and fluffy it looks twice as thick as it really is."

"It is so easy to wash one's own hair with it and Blackmer & Tanquary are selling it at present for 25c, a tube, enough for several shampoos, and guarantee to return your money if you don't like it."

ADDITION TO DIPLOMATIC SOCIETY

"But certainly no woman in our household ever has or ever will smoke. Quite apart from the bad taste of it, I believe with you that it has an extremely injurious effect on the nerves."

Back of the interview and the subject of it lies a little mystery which Governor Wilson himself and other members of his family believe may be due to a confusion of names.

There is a Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, also there is a Mrs. Wilson Woodrow. The one is the wife of the presidential nominee and the other is a well-known writer. Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Woodrow were once relatives, for the writer was married to a cousin of the governor. Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, according to all reports by the persons who have been investigating the source of the interview, does smoke. The explanation is that some editor or interviewer got the two women mixed and sent out Mrs. Wilson Woodrow's views as those of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

Catlin Loses His Place Spent Liberally

Missouri Representative Spent Too Much For Election.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Representative Theron E. Catlin of Missouri, Republican, was unseated as a member of the house of representatives and his Democratic opponent, who contested the election, Patrick F. Gill, was seated, amid wild enthusiasm from the Democratic side. The charge against Mr. Catlin was that he and his family had spent $10,200 to elect him to congress, when the Missouri law prohibited an expenditure by candidates of more than $662.

AMERICAN ARMY BROKE.

Washington, Aug. 13.—For the first time in history the American army has gone broke. Over 60,000 gallant soldier boys are without a penny in their pockets if they have been dependent upon Uncle Sam for the money. They have received no pay from the government since last May and a host of complaints are pouring in on the paymaster general of the army. The extraordinary situation is due to the failure of congress to pass the deficiency appropriation bills.

House and Senate Unable to Agree on Sugar Schedule.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Present indications are that the Underwood excise tax bill will fail of passage at this session. The fate of this measure is dependent on the result of the conference between the two houses on the senate bill providing a reduction in tariff rate on sugar instead of admitting the product duty free as provided in the house bill. A conference on the sugar bill will be held today. The two houses are widely separated on sugar and the Democrats expect to see this bill, as well as the excise measure, fail in conference.

FAMOUS "BONEHEAD" PLAYS ON MAJOR LEAGUE DIAMONDS

Explained by Leading Baseball Players to

HUGH S. FULLERTON

BY DEL GAINER.

First Baseman Detroit Tigers, Who is Considered One of the Best of the Younger Generation of American Leaguers.

There is one play that made it look as if the space reserved in my brain for gray matter was about as big as a pea, and for a few days I was afraid to have a back tooth filled for fear they'd fill the whole cavity and leave me solid all the way through. Yet it wasn't such a bad play as it looked. The fact is I thought out that play in fine style, and the wind wouldn't let me show that I was pulling off a smart trick.

I made the break soon after I came up from the bushes to join the Detroit team, and of course, being a new man, it hurt worse than it would have done now, when I've become a bit case-hardened to the criticisms. I'd rather have the fellows break loose and tell me what they think than to shake their heads sadly and gaze at me as if they felt a little sorry. You know how it is.

We were playing Cleveland, I believe, and that season there was more than the usual rivalry between the teams, as Cleveland was on a spurt and we weren't doing any too well. It was a fighting, hustling game all the way, and we were tied up in the first of the ninth. I believe it was Birmingham who cracked out a long hit for the start and was sacrificed along, which landed him on third with only one out, and the infield was pulled out to cut him off from the plate. The next batter hit a foul fly out over my head toward right field, one of those short flies that don't go very high. The right fielder hadn't a chance to get it, and, although it would have been an easy out if I had been playing back of the base, it was a tough one to go back after. I took a look and started out for it, feeling sure it would fall foul by many feet. As I tore along I thought I could reach the ball and went harder and harder. Then I did my thinking. I realized that if I caught the ball I would be extended at top speed and would have to stop, turn entirely around and make the throw to the plate to prevent Birmingham from scoring on the catch. It seemed five to one that I couldn't recover and get him, so I decided not to try to catch the ball, but to let it fall foul. I slackened speed, and just then the ball hit the wind, shot out and hit three or four inches fair, with me trotting along and not trying for it, ten feet away. Birmingham scored, they scored again before we got them out, and although we counted one in our half we were beaten.

It wasn't any use to explain or make excuses. I had to grin and take it, but I still think I had the play figured out right, the only trouble being that it went all wrong.

BY CHARLEY O'LEARY.

Infielder of Detroit Tigers, Who is Considered One of the Cleverest and Fastest of the Veterans of the American League.

The worst blunder I ever made in my baseball career was the result of getting mixed up on signals, and it turned out to be as lucky a thing as ever happened to me. It is funny now, but it came near breaking my neck and Herman Schaefer's jaw at the same time.

We were playing Boston on the Detroit grounds late in the season of 1907 when everyone was scrambling for the pennant, and every game was worth a right eye to win. Our infield had been shot to pieces and we were shifting every few days. At that time I had switched from second over to short, because Bush was hurt, and Schaefer, who had been hurt and out of it, got back at second. Probably it was the change of position that mixed me up. At any rate, the score was extremely close, and I believe was a tie at the time, as we afterwards won it by one run. Speaker opened the eighth inning with a two-base wallop to left, and it looked pretty troublesome for us. Schmidt was catching, and I signaled him to try a throw to catch Speaker off second. Usually the signal was given by some one else, but Speaker was taking a long lead, and I thought there was a chance to nip him.

I saw Schmidt give Donovan the signal for a pitch out, and as the ball was pitched, I went back of Speaker as hard as I could to the bag. My eyes were on the ball as Schmidt threw, but at that minute I bumped up against something that felt like a stone wall. It was Schaefer coming from the other side of the bag to take the throw. Schaefer staggered back and the thrown ball hit him on the shoulder, then on the jaw. Speaker had seen the collision and he tore out for third, thinking the ball would go on to center field. It would have, had it not been for Schaefer's jaw. He staggered, jumped at the ball and threw

Speaker out by ten feet at third. Then he sat down and Donovan came back laughing and counted ten before he could get up. We never did find out who blundered, but it depends upon who Schmidt took his tip from. He evidently got it from Schaefer, so I was to blame. Schmidt declares that he saw we both were mixed on the play, so threw to hit Schmidt in the middle of the back, and make the play that way, and he apologized because his throw was a few inches high and wide, and hit Schaefer in the jaw instead.

Old Lady Wound Up With Excellent Reason for Not Liking the Dominie's Sermon.

Walter D. Moody, managing director of the Chicago plan commission, told the following story at a recent luncheon of the Chicago real estate board:

A Scotch clergyman who had made a particularly brilliant attempt (as he thought) in the preparation of a certain sermon, felt highly elated on the Sunday on which it was delivered.

Walking home from church after the service he encountered an old lady who was one of his stanchest parishioners. Slipping his arm through hers he asked:

"Aunt, how did you like my sermon today?" Expecting, of course, to receive a fine word of approval from the devout old lady, who was a great admirer of the minister, he was chagrined when she replied: "Good dominie, I did not like it."

"You did not like it, aunt! Well, what was the reason?"

"There are three reasons."

"Three reasons! I declare! I pray what was the first one?"

"I do not like sermons that are read."

"That was not disconcerting, so the minister pressed the old lady for the second reason."

"Well," she said, "I did not like the way you read it."

"Come now, aunt," continued the minister, "that is not so bad. What was the final reason?"

"Well, I dinna like to tell you, good dominie, but I thought it wasn't worth reading."

COBB OUTPLAYED BY SCHULTE IN PENNANT-WINNING CLASH

AN automobile presented to Frank Schulte by a board of competent critics in October, 1911, singled him out as the most valuable player to a club in the National league that season. Ty Cobb was similarly honored in the American league. Singularly enough this dashing outfielder of the Chicago Cubs was the principal actor in a play in the world's series of 1908 that stopped the famed Georgian on the bases, killed his chances of scoring in the first decisive game and had a direct bearing on the pennant race.

Schulte's great play required speed, brains and resourcefulness to spring the unexpected, qualities that made the Cub machine respected and feared for many seasons by all the strong teams in the game.

When the Cubs were the winners in the National league in 1908 the principal problem confronting Chance's men was that of stopping Cobb in his career of hitting and wild base running. All baseball fandom was wondering and speculating what the batting marvel of the Tigers would do in the impending clash for a world's baseball crown. Cobb had gone through the American league season with an average of .350 at bat and proved a whirlwind on the bases.

The first clash in Chicago resulted in a drawn game. Interest in the series was at fever heat. The Tigers feared the Cubs and Chance's men worried most about Cobb, Mullin, Donovan and Crawford, but most of all about Cobb. If this demon batter and base stealer could be headed off and suppressed they figured Chicago would win.

Schulte's great coup had been worked on other players, but this occasion stands out as his master stroke, for it stopped Cobb in his only chance to run the bases in the first decisive game and doubtless had its effect on the Georgian's subsequent attempts to score on the Cubs.

In his first appearance at bat Cobb swung at the first ball Jack Pfeister pitched, but missed it completely. After two strikes he grounded to Tinker and was thrown out. His one chance to run the bases came in the fourth inning, when he singled to center. The Cubs were on their toes. Cobb was on and good batters were due to follow. Rossman lifted a high fly to short left. Schulte ran under the ball and Cobb took a long lead off first. But instead of catching the ball as an ordinary fielder might have done, Schulte trapped it and Cobb, knowing his plight, dashed madly for second. Schulte's throw to Tinker was well timed, but none too quick to catch Cobb rushing down with such force as to tear the base from its mooring.

The question has often been asked, "Why didn't Cobb make more hits and score more runs in the world's series of 1907 and 1908?" This one play executed by Schulte on the spur of the moment answers this question, in part at least.

FAMOUS 'DOMEHEAD' PLAYS ON MAJOR LEAGUE DIAMONDS

Explained by Leading Baseball Players to
HUGH S. FULLERTON

BY DEL GAINER.

First Baseman Detroit Tigers, Who Is Considered One of the Best of the Younger Generation of American Leaguers.

There is one play that made it look as if the space reserved in my bean for gray matter was about as big as a pea, and for a few days I was afraid to have a back tooth filled for fear they'd fill the whole cavity and leave me solid all the way through. Yet it wasn't such a bad play as it looked. The fact is I thought out that play in the style, and the wind wouldn't let me show that I was pulling off a smart trick.

I made the break soon after I came up from the bushes to join the Detroit team, and of course, being a new man, I hurt worse than it would have done now, when I've become a bit case-hardened to the criticisms. I'd rather have the fellows break loose and tell me what they think than to shake their heads sadly and gaze at me as if they felt a little sorry. You know how it is.

We were playing Cleveland, I believe, and that season there was more than the usual rivalry between the teams, as Cleveland was on a spurt and we weren't doing any too well. It was a fighting, hustling game all the way, and we were tied up in the first of the ninth. I believe it was Birmingham who cracked out a long hit for the start and was sacrificed along, which landed him on third with only one out, and the infield was pulled out to cut him off from the plate. Next batter hit a foul fly out over our head toward right field, one of those short flies that don't go very high. The right fielder hadn't a chance to get it, and, although it would have been an easy out if I had been playing back of the base, it was a tough one to go back after. I took a look and started out for it, feeling sure it would fall foul by many feet. As I tore along I thought I could reach the ball and went harder and harder. Then I did my thinking. I realized that if I caught the ball I would be extended at top speed and would have to stop, turn entirely around and make the throw to the plate to prevent Birmingham from scoring on the catch. It seemed five to one that I couldn't recover and get him, so I decided not to try to catch the ball, but to let it fall foul. I slackened speed, and just then the ball hit the wind, shot out and hit three or four inches fair, with me trotting along and not trying for it, ten feet away. Birmingham scored, they scored again before we got them out, and although we counted one in our half we were beaten.

It wasn't any use to explain or make excuses. I had to grin and take it, but I still think I had the play figured out right, the only trouble being that it went all wrong.

BY CHARLEY O'LEARY.

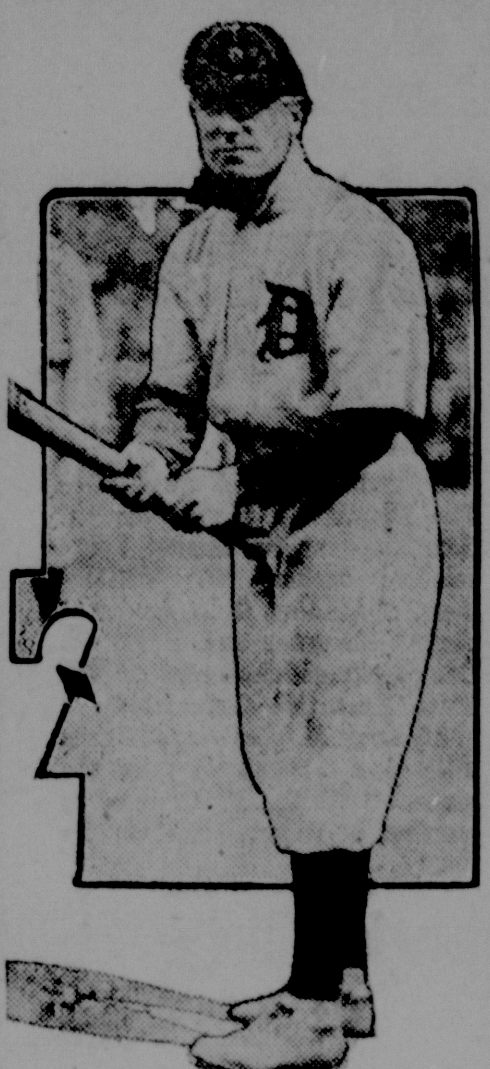

Infielder of Detroit Tigers, Who Is Considered One of the Cleverest and Fastest of the Veterans of the American League.

The worst blunder I ever made in my baseball career was the result of getting mixed up on signals, and it turned out to be as lucky a thing as ever happened to me. It is funny now, but it came near breaking my neck and Herman Schaefer's jaw at the same time.

We were playing Boston on the Detroit grounds late in the season of 1907 when everyone was scrambling for the pennant, and every game was worth a right eye to win. Our infield had been shot to pieces and we were shifting every few days. At that time I had switched from second over to short, because Bush was hurt, and Schaefer, who had been hurt and out of it, got back at second. Probably it was the change of position that mixed me up. At any rate, the score was extremely close, and I believe was a tie at the time, as we afterwards won it by one run. Speaker opened the eighth inning with a two-base wallop to left, and it looked pretty troublesome for us. Schmidt was catching, and I signaled him to try a throw to catch Speaker off second. Usually the signal was given by some one else, but Speaker was taking a long lead, and I thought there was a chance to nip him.

I saw Schmidt give Donovan the signal for a pitch out, and as the ball was pitched, I went back of Speaker as hard as I could to the bag. My eyes were on the ball as Schmidt threw, but at that minute I bumped up against something that felt like a stone wall. It was Schaefer coming from the other side of the bag to take the throw. Schaefer staggered back and the thrown ball hit him on the shoulder, then on the jaw. Speaker had seen the collision and he tore out for third, thinking the ball would go on to center field. It would have, had it not been for Schaefer's jaw. He staggered, jumped at the ball and threw

Speaker out by ten feet at third. Then he sat down and Donovan came back laughing and counted ten before he could get up. We never did find out who blundered, but it depends upon who Schmidt took his tip from. He evidently got it from Schaefer, so I was to blame. Schmidt declares that he saw we both were mixed on the play, so threw to hit Schmidt in the middle of the back, and make the play that way, and he apologized because his throw was a few inches high and wide, and hit Schaefer in the jaw instead.

Local Man Lands A Huge Catfish

James S. Hays a South North street resident, holds the record for catching big fish this year, and Monday was proudly exhibiting a shovel-head cat fish which tipped the scales at 18 pounds and 8 ounces, and measuring 42 inches in length, the huge jaws of the big fellow being large enough to admit the head of a man between them.

Mr. Hays caught the big fellow just below Bainbridge, where he had a trout line set in Paint creek, and had a fight on his hands before he succeeded in bringing the finny monster to the shore. He brought the fish and a number of smaller ones to his home in this city, where many have viewed his splendid catch.

Mr. Hays has returned to Bainbridge to try his hand in landing more of the large fish which abound in the muddy waters of Paint creek.

NEW SPHINX FOUND

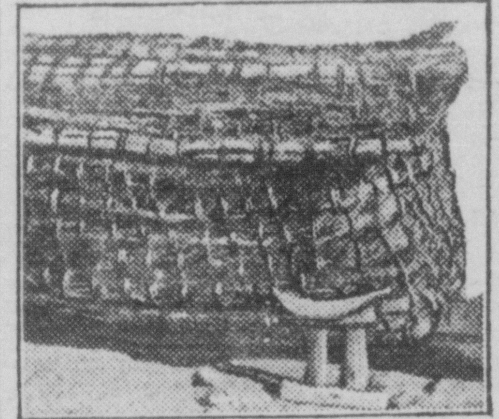

Student of British Museum Discovers It in Egypt.

Cairo, Egypt. — Another sphinx, weighing ninety tons, and carved from a single block of alabaster, has been unearthed at a point between the world-famed Colossi, on the water-logged plains of Memphis, in Egypt. For hundreds of years it has lain in a recumbent position buried beneath the sands on the road to Sakkeh. Today it is half-exposed to view, and next year it is to be raised to a vertical position above the water-line.

This newly found sphinx was betrayed in its hiding place by its tail, which Mr. Mackay, one of the students of the British School in Egypt, discovered about a year ago. This year, when the water on the plain subsided, the complete figure was excavated, and was found to measure some fourteen feet in height and twenty-six feet in length. Alabaster being a rock foreign to the neighborhood, the new sphinx ranks as the largest that has ever been transported. The figure bears no inscription, but is considered by Prof. Flinders Petrie, the director of the British School in Egypt, to have been carved about 1300 B. C. Many other remarkable discoveries, taking the mind back as far as 5500 B. C., and lifting the veil of centuries from Egypt's romantic story, have also been made by the same school, and, with the exception of a red granite group of Rameses II and the god Ptah, which will be sent direct to the Ny Carlsberg Museum at Copenhagen, and a few other details, are now on exhibition at University College, Gower street. They include many objects quite new to Egyptologists.

Among these are coffins made of basket work, reeds or withes, sandals, trays, an axe handle, in which the grip is composed of delicately knotted string, a pot of unburnt incense for a fire-offering of 4000 B. C., and numerous pieces of timber, showing by their formation the principles of building construction that were in vogue nearly 6000 years B. C.

The graves of the early Egyptians were always well provided with such necessities as were thought essential for the spirit of the departed when it again materialized. Consequently, the relics from Tarkhan include headrests (some of them carved out of trees trained specially into peculiar shapes), sandals, large jars of food, and various vessels of gypsum and semi-transparent alabaster. Some of the vases bear the name of Mena, the earliest known Egyptian king. They are considered by some experts to be a tribute corresponding to the modern floral wreath. Evidence is also provided of the lack of historical sentiment in the Roman occupants of Egypt by numerous examples of inscribed Egyptian tablets that have been used as hearth stones, door lintels, and mill stones. There is also ample evidence of the belief that sacrilege among the tombs was more common in the earlier periods of Egyptian history than in later periods.

HAS MARRIED 4,000 COUPLES

Tennessee Minister Builds Hotel Especially for Eloping Couples.

Bristol, Tenn.—Rev. Alfred Harrison Burroughs of Bristol, now in his eightieth year, has married 4,000 couples in the last twenty-three years. "I had no thought of making this a business," said the aged minister. "I was licensed to marry people many years ago, and when the first runaway couple sought me in 1889, I consented to marry them more as a matter of accommodation than anything else. "Some of my friends were present and witnessed the marriage. They complimented me and told me that I ought to make marrying a business. After that I did not decline to offer my services whenever a couple came my way. Month by month the business grew until I sometimes married from three to six couples a day."

So rapidly did the minister's marrying business increase that he built a hotel designed especially to accommodate eloping couples.

New Wrinkle in Laundry.

San Bernardo, Cal.—When his laundry bill showed a charge for washing four greenbacks, George B. Rowan gasped in astonishment. He looked through his laundry and found a pile of carefully ironed and starched banknotes which had come home with his weekly wash. They amounted to $60, which he remembered having failed to remove from his clothing before sending it to the laundry.

A DIPLOMAT.

"And what is your opinion of America?" they asked the distinguished visitor.

"It is undoubtedly the leader of civilization," he earnestly replied. We should be envious of her advancement did we not know her as our friend."

"And the women of America?"

He smiled, with half-closed eyes. "Ravishing! Such wit!" His eyes glowed. "Such good breeding! So superbly gowned! They have no equal anywhere!"

Everybody is planning to see the flying machine Thursday and Friday, and immense crowds are expected on both days. The work of cutting out a dead tree near the Judges' stand was ordered Monday, so the flying machine could start from that point.

NEW SPHINX FOUND

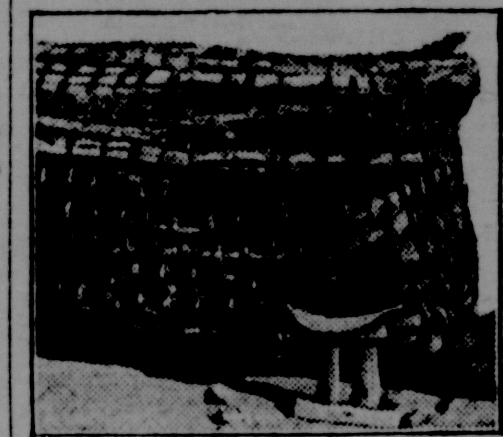

Student of British Museum Discovers It in Egypt.

Cairo, Egypt.—Another sphinx, weighing ninety tons, and carved from a single block of alabaster, has been unearthed at a point between the world-famed Colossi, on the water-logged plains of Memphis, in Egypt. For hundreds of years it has lain in a recumbent position buried beneath the sands on the road to Sakkarah. Today it is half-exposed to view, and next year it is to be raised to a vertical position above the water-line.

This newly found sphinx was betrayed in its hiding place by its tail, which Mr. Mackay, one of the students of the British School in Egypt, discovered about a year ago. This year, when the water on the plain subsided, the complete figure was excavated, and was found to measure some fourteen feet in height and twenty-six feet in length. Alabaster being a rock foreign to the neighborhood, the new sphinx ranks as the largest that has ever been transported. The figure bears no inscription, but is considered by Prof. Flinders Petrie, the director of the British School in Egypt, to have been carved about 1300 B. C. Many other remarkable discoveries, taking the mind back as far as 5500 B. Local Man Lands A Huge Catfish

James S. Hays a South North street resident, holds the record for catching big fish this year, and Monday was proudly exhibiting a shovel-head cat fish which tipped the scales at 18 pounds and 8 ounces, and measuring 42 inches in length, the huge jaws of the big fellow being large enough to admit the head of a man between them.

Mr. Hays caught the big fellow just below Bainbridge, where he had a trout line line set in Paint creek, and had a fight on his hands before he succeeded in bringing the finny monster to the shore. He brought the fish and a number of smaller ones to his home in this city, where many have viewed his splendid catch.

Mr. Hays has returned to Bainbridge to try his hand in landing more of the large fish which abound in the muddy waters of Paint creek.

New Manager For Larrimer Laundry

A meeting of the stockholders of the Larrimer Laundry Company was held Monday night, and it was unanimously decided to continue in business as heretofore, and Mr. Dan Mark, who has been associated with the firm and is an expert laundryman, was made manager of the Laundry, with Miss Lulu Larrimer, sister of the late Clyde Larrimer, as assistant manager.

Mr. Mark takes the place of Clyde Larrimer, deceased, who very ably managed the business for several years. New improvements will be made in the near future.
